

Background information about Bradford Woods

Adventure Education

At Bradford Woods, Adventure Education seeks to provide innovative learning opportunities that enable individuals, groups, organizations, and communities to maximize their potential. These programs may focus on team and community development, interpersonal reflection, personal skill growth, outdoor technical skills, leadership and therapeutic intervention. Professionally trained instructors facilitate participants through challenge courses and adventure-based activities.

Adventure education uses unique situations and purposeful activities to provide an environment for learning. Specific activity sequences and program designs are created based on the group's desired outcomes. Our goal at Bradford Woods is to create a safe simulated environment where learning may transfer directly to the school, community, home, or workplace.

In the safe environment provided by Bradford Woods' Adventure Education, we provide opportunities for growth in the areas of Leadership, Adventure Learning, Business Community, Consulting, and Challenge-Based Intervention programming areas. We can customize our programming to meet your needs.

Bradford Woods is among a select group of outdoor centers to receive dual accreditation by Association for Experiential Education and the American Camp Association.

Leadership & Organizational Development

The natural environment of Bradford Woods provides a novel setting that enables clients to share life's common challenges. Through our challenge-based intervention programming, individuals in a group setting can work on social skills and self systems, internal reflection, meeting individualized challenges and eventually practicing new behaviors.

History of Bradford Woods

<http://bradwoods.org/about/history.htm>